

COMPANY OVERVIEW

Moriarty and Associates Consulting Corporation (MAC) was founded in 1998 and determined to set a new standard for technology performance and efficiency. Over a decade later, our firm continues to build our clients' organizations – including the military, intelligence, and private sector – by developing and implementing innovative and results-driven solutions to some of the most highly complex problems.

Our core competency in information technology is characterized by a dedicated cleared staff - both domestically based and deployable experts - with combined decades of experience. Many years of building success-based relationships with each customer have earned us the reputation of providing the best solutions - on time and on budget.

CAPABILITIES & EXPERTISE

Our capabilities are defined by an extraordinary range and depth of knowledge and skills in critical IT disciplines. We provide a decisive advantage to our customers through our combination of superior personnel having key academic and field credentials, and our thorough understanding of your business processes. This simplifies your calculation of the "total cost of the business relationship."

An essential component of our capabilities is the high priority we assign to building relationships with each and every contract and customer; possessing the technical expertise is simply not enough. Unlike larger companies, Moriarty and Associates is agile and able to respond quickly to customers' requirements. We recognize and subscribe fully to the ideal that quality and performance are maximized when technical and professional assets are coupled with ability and desire to truly understand and communicate with each customer.
